

President Says Spending Slash Must Be First

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee disagreed vigorously and openly today with President Eisenhower's avowed policy of putting spending cuts ahead of any reductions in taxes.

A tax cut must "precede, not follow" budget reductions, the committee said in a report to the House only one day after Eisenhower strongly renewed his stand for the reverse order.

Further, the committee asserted, a delay in tax trimming until the level of spending is determined—the approach stressed by Eisenhower—"might well have serious economic consequences."

This language brought squarely into the open a simmering clash among Republicans over tax policy and raised the threat of a possible presidential veto. It was approved by the committee in a closed meeting late yesterday—without a roll-call vote.

The committee planned to make it public today. Some newsmen saw a copy in advance of that action.

The report formally sends to the House, with a recommendation for passage, a bill by Committee Chairman Reed (R-NY) to cut individual income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1—a bill approved 21-4 by the committee Monday.

Reduction Premature

At his first White House news conference, Eisenhower said yesterday that the government cannot afford to reduce taxes or federal income until it has in sight a spending program which balances income and outgo. Otherwise, he added, higher taxes may result in the future.

Eisenhower would not say whether he would veto any tax bill which may reach his desk. But he did say at one point he would not consent as things now stand to any reduction in government revenue without a substitute which would bring in as much.

The President indicated if the excess profits tax on business is to expire June 30 — as provided in present law—his administration would seek a substitute for that revenue, estimated at about 2½ billion dollars annually.

Ways and means committee sources said today they have heard the Treasury is considering asking

Pressure On Wilson To Show Results In Defense Department

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's backing of his businessman defense team has put pointed political pressure on Charles E. Wilson's team for some firm production and economy accomplishments.

Eisenhower made it plain at his news conference yesterday he is irked by Democratic jibes at the "big business" look of his administration, much of it concentrated in the military establishment.

Although he and Adlai E. Stevenson apparently had a friendly conference afterward, Eisenhower's face flushed when he was asked about his 1952 opponent's suggestion Saturday that the "big deal" may have come to Washington.

Declaring he was not going to engage in any argument over words directed at gaining political advantage, the President said he couldn't conceive of having to answer to an accusation that he was not solely concerned with the welfare of all 158 million American people.

His subsequent statement that he looked on production as one of the chief military problems and had set out to get the men with the best production records put it up to Secretary of Defense Wilson to produce.

At the same time, his assertion that there is no hope of keeping money stable and ending inflation until the budget is balanced gave Wilson—probably more than any government official—notice that

Red Base Ripped By 400 Bombers

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
SEOUL (AP) — Nearly 400 Allied fighter-bombers blasted a big North Korean tank and infantry training base into flaming ruin in dawn to dusk raids today, touching off furious air battles that saw seven Red MIGs shot from the skies, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported.

Two tremendous air blows by a total of 379 fighter-bombers turned the center near the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang into a sea of "hellish fire" with great explosions that jarred raider planes 11,000 feet up, returning pilots reported.

Air Force and Marine planes teamed in the strike, billed as the largest of the year. Late arrivals over the target said fires and towering smoke columns made it impossible to tell immediately how much damage was wrought.

FINLEY, Tenn. (AP) — Two minor earthquakes jarred houses and rattled dishes and windows in this Northwest Tennessee town yesterday. No damage was reported.

Naval Blockade Would Be Blow To Chinese Reds

By OLEN CLEMENTS
ABOARD U. S. CARRIER VALLEY FORGE, off Korea (AP) — Navy fighting men in the Sea of Japan have maintained an effective blockade along the entire Korean east coast but could a blockade of the Red China coast do as well?

The possible repercussions from Communist China, Russia and the rest of the Red world is something that Navy men do not talk about publicly.

Would such a sea blockade drastically slash Communist China's war potential anyway? That is considered quite likely.

Coast Traffic Heavy
The U. S. and United Nations warships operating in the Korean War know there is a lot of surface traffic along the 2,000-mile China coast.

Hundreds of Chinese junks, as well as vessels flying foreign flags — including some leased from members of the United Nations — scoot in and out of Red ports with war material.

The U. S. Navy, with carriers, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, planes and patrol boats, probably could stop the bulk of this traffic.

Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Navy, with only about 80 small warships, is not sufficient even to curtail the movement of Chinese junks along the coast.

Nationalist China proclaimed a port closure on the China coast three years ago. It has not been effective.

Effective In Korea
The value of a blockade has been ably demonstrated in the U. N. naval warfare against Red Korea. "We have completely suppressed coastal traffic around Korea," said Rear Adm. Apollo Soucek, commander of U. S. Carrier Division 3 in the Sea of Japan.

Although the Allied warships have denied use of the sea to the Communists in Korea, the Reds still are pouring tremendous stores into their front lines by land routes.

Before the war Korea had a network of good highways and railroads. The Reds have used them to good advantage since the blockade.

Bridges Calls For Reduction In Foreign Aid

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called today for reassessment and reduction of foreign aid spending and said he will ask Secretary of State Dulles for a preliminary estimate of how much may be needed to help anti-Communist nations.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, which Bridges heads, called Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen to discuss the overseas aid program at a closed session.

Far East First
Bridges predicted Dulles and Stassen will be told that many senators want "general equalization" of American aid, with more attention to the Far East.

"We think the program should be worked out with the whole free world in mind, rather than concentrating just on Europe," the New Hampshire senator remarked.

Bridges said Dulles and Stassen would be asked if the aid program can be operated for another year on about 10 billion dollars already appropriated by Congress. Former President Truman had asked for a little more than 7½ billion dollars in new funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Cut To Bone
Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), a member of Bridges' committee, said he is confident the 10 unspent billions are enough, and he added:

"Foreign aid spending ought to be cut to the bone. Congress not only should cut the funds, but see to it that holdover money is spent intelligently."

Bridges said he hopes Dulles and Stassen plan some sizable reductions in foreign spending.

Dulles and Stassen recently made a flying trip to Europe. There are indications they will hold up fund requests until after a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting set for April.

Spiritual Diary For Lent

And be ye kind one to another, —Ephesians 4:32

O brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother,
Where pity dwells, the peace of God is there.

—John Greenleaf Whittier

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Justice among men can be attained only by the satisfaction of human physical that are threefold in their nature, because man is at once a physical creature who must be clothed, fed and sheltered; a thinking being who is forever questioning and must be given the opportunity to find the answers; a spiritual being within whom burn aspirations that cannot be quenched by all the material goods of this world.

Man's spiritual side is the dominant one. No human being, whatever his position, merits more respect than any other animal unless we accept without reservation the brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God. If men are not creatures of soul, they are not better than the field mule, whipped and goaded to work, cared for in the measure of his monetary value. But too often we incline to describe the ultimate in human welfare as a mule's sort of heaven — a roof overhead, food, a minimum of work and no responsibilities.

Unless we seek our own understanding, we cannot hope to make unbelievers see that things of the spirit — justice, freedom, equality — are the elements that make important the satisfaction of man's creature needs.

—Dwight D. Eisenhower

TODAY'S PRAYER

Our Heavenly Father, help us to realize that peace is more the product of our everyday living than of a spectacular program, intermittently executed. May we live our daily lives in honesty, decency and integrity; at home, making our own land a fitting habitation for free men; and, abroad, joining with those of like mind and heart, to make of the world a place where all men can dwell in peace. Amen.

Red A-Bomb Menace Emphasizes Need For Skywatch Volunteers

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concern over lagging public interest in the volunteer skywatcher part of the air defense program appeared today to be partly responsible for President Eisenhower's reiterated declaration that Russia does indeed have atomic weapons.

Eisenhower, on his own initiative, spoke up on the subject at his news conference yesterday.

He read the statement by Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission on Jan. 30 — issued after former President Truman had stated doubt that Russia had workable atomic bombs. Dean said the Soviets had exploded three atomic bombs. The President said he thought Dean's statement was absolutely true, word for word.

Over 500,000 Needed
The President's voluntary discussion of Soviet bombs, making capability was against this background:

1. The Air Force program for recruiting an ultimate total of more than 500,000 men, women and youths to keep 24-hour watch for hostile planes which may slip through the radar network is far behind schedule. By the end of last year only a little over 126,000 persons in the 27 Northern and coastal states involved in "Operation Skywatch" had volunteered.

2. The Federal Civil Defense Administration, which like the Air Force has been troubled by indifference in many areas to its program, declared in a report Monday that the Red Air Force was capable of sending 400 planes against any place in the U. S.; that one all-out attack with atom bombs could bring 11 million killed and injured.

New Evidence Hinted
3. A full-dress briefing on atomic warfare—operational as well as political — given Eisenhower on Monday by top civilian and military officials. It was possible, of course, that Eisenhower could have been advised of some new evidence indicating another Soviet atomic test.

Lansing Legislators Impressed By U. M.

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Sixty-three state legislators were back in Lansing today, "much impressed" with the full-dress review staged for their benefit yesterday by the University of Michigan.

"We were much impressed with the improvement in buildings that render such a service to the people of Michigan and the nation," said Wade Van Valkenburg, speaker of the House.

The visit, staged by about half of the membership of the state legislature at the invitation of the University president Harlan H. Hatcher, apparently may pay dividends in the University's bid to strengthen future financial aid from the lawmakers.

"The university has first priority on educational funds," said Van Valkenburg. The legislature would like to do things for the university if it has the money.

The university, hailing the legislators as "fellow stockholders in a great enterprise," feted the visitors at a luncheon, which was preceded by a tour of the campus and followed by an inspection of the new, ultra-modern out-patient clinic.

Hatcher told the senators and representatives that the university administrators served as "stewards" of an institution that ranks among the first half dozen in the nation.

Buildings Inefficient
He said the legislators were invited here for the dual purpose of showing them what the legislature

Mother Saves 4 Trapped In Fire

ST. LOUIS (AP) — With flames cutting off exits from her home, a 41-year-old mother tossed three young children to a passer-by from a second-floor window last night, then leaped to safety with a fourth child in her arms.

The woman, Mrs. Rosalie Smith, was treated for first and second-degree burns on her arm and back at City Hospital.

Only one of the children, 3-year-old Nathan, suffered injury. He received a slight scalp wound. The passer-by, Frank Esselmann, caught Nathan, Linda, 2, and 11-month-old Alice in his arms. Then he partially broke the fall of Mrs. Smith and Fred, 4.

Rosenbergs Ask Clemency Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The attorney for condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg says he will make a new plea to President Eisenhower for executive clemency.

The lawyer, Emanuel H. Bloch, adds that the couple "will be vindicated" when Eisenhower "receives the full details."

Bloch made these statements to newsmen late yesterday after a three-man Federal Appeals Court granted the Rosenbergs a new stay of execution until March 30 or longer for another appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Rosenberg, 34, and his 36-year-old wife were convicted almost two years ago of conspiracy to transmit atomic secrets to Russia.

One plea for executive clemency already has been made by Bloch. Eisenhower announced his rejection of the appeal a week ago. On Monday a Federal District Court scheduled the Rosenbergs to die the week of March 9 in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison.

Accepted By India

WASHINGTON (AP) — India has accepted career diplomat George V. Allen as the new American ambassador to New Delhi, informed sources said today.

Allen, now envoy to Communist Yugoslavia, will succeed Chester Bowles, former Democratic governor of Connecticut and onetime federal price control chief.

Ceilings Lifted On Coal, Lumber And Cosmetics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today lifted price controls from milk, butter, ice cream and other dairy products. Drugs, cosmetics, coal and most service charges, such as for auto, radio and television repairs, also were freed from controls.

Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill said the items decontrolled in the new list affect about 10 per cent of the articles used in making up the Cost of Living Index. He said the Office of Price Stabilization still retains full control over about 13 per cent of the items and partial control over about 3.5 per cent.

Missing from the list was cigarettes and other tobacco products on which OPS had planned yesterday to lift controls. The agency decided overnight to substitute milk and dairy products and oleomargarine for the tobaccos.

This was the third major action in stripping off price curbs since President Eisenhower called for ending controls in an orderly manner by April 30.

Freehill predicted that more than 25 billion dollars worth of goods and services based on an annual business volume was affected by today's action.

Increases Expected

Freehill predicted at a news conference there would be price increases for many of the newly exempt items. He mentioned higher charges for services, some spotted increases on milk and dairy products, and general raises for

Push For School Aid Is Revived

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Democrat pointed to a passage from President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today to support a drive for more money for hard-hit school districts.

The House Appropriations Committee turned down a request by former President Truman for 24 million dollars to help school districts whose pupil population has been swollen by an influx of defense workers or military personnel.

The GOP-controlled committee said there appeared to be no need for the additional money, since 40 millions already have been appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 1.

Rep. Fogarty (D-RI), a committee member, told newsmen he would ask the House to restore the 24 million when the bill reaches the amendment stage, probably late today. He said he expected most Democrats and many Republicans to support his move.

Harnischfeger Plans To Build Warehouse Here

Announcement of plans by Harnischfeger Corporation to construct a warehouse building at its welder plant on Stephenson Avenue today coincided with a special meeting of the Escanaba City Council to further consider the city's interest in Harnischfeger expansion.

Herman Menck, Milwaukee, vice president of Harnischfeger Corporation, advised the City Council through A. V. Aronson, city manager, of the plans for the warehouse project.

The proposed warehouse will be 50 feet wide and 200 feet long, constructed to harmonize with other structures at the Harnischfeger welder plant development on Stephenson Avenue.

Cost To $45,000

The new building would be on the south side of the present Harnischfeger buildings and its cost is estimated at $35,000 to $45,000. The city will be asked only to approve the erection of the building on land owned by the city and leased to Harnischfeger Corporation. Harnischfeger will pay all of the construction costs.

By erecting the warehouse, Harnischfeger will clear the city-owned Solar building on First Avenue North now rented by Harnischfeger for storage.

This will permit Northern Motor Rebuilders, now in the Stephenson Avenue location, to move to the Solar building. Harnischfeger seeks the present Northern Motor Rebuilders site for expansion of its welder plant.

Will Ask Bids

Northern Motor Rebuilders and Harnischfeger Corporation, in connection with the exchange of buildings to permit Harnischfeger expansion, have made a joint proposal to the city.

Harnischfeger would advance two years rental on the property leased from the city on Stephenson Avenue. This would total $24,000, none of it to be applied toward the purchase of the property from the city.

Northern Motor Rebuilders, in the proposed lease of the Solar building, would pay $200 a month and make an advance payment to aid the city in meeting the cost of renovating the Solar building.

In today's special meeting the Council informally agreed that it will ask for bids for the renovating of the Solar building, including the rewiring necessary to make it suitable for Northern Motor Rebuilders.

Cost City $31,500

Cost to the city for the removal of Northern Motor Rebuilders from Stephenson Avenue to the Solar building is estimated as follows:

Renovating — Approximately $19,300; electrical wiring — $4,200; assistance in cost of removing Northern Motor Rebuilders — $8,000.

In previous meetings with the City Council, Harnischfeger Corporation representatives pointed out that by advances in rentals from Harnischfeger and Northern Motor Rebuilders the city would have the money made available for the removal of Northern Motor Rebuilders and the renovating of the Solar building.

Indirect benefits to the community would include 150 additional jobs resulting from Harnischfeger's expansion of its welder plant, plus increased rentals and utility revenues to the city.

Dr. Harrington Is New U. Of M. Alumni President

Dr. Kirke F. Harrington of Escanaba was elected president of the University of Michigan Alumni club at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Delta Hotel.

Dr. Harrington succeeds George Perrin as Alumni president. Clair J. Hoehn of Gladstone was named vice president and Charles L. Folio, Escanaba, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Guests at the noon luncheon were Bill Orwig and Don Robinson, University of Michigan football coaches, who showed a film of the Michigan-Minnesota Big Ten football game of last fall.

Other guests included coaches Tom St. Germain of St. Joe, Joe Milokna of Escanaba and Don Photenhauer of Gladstone and several of their star football players of last season.

Escanaba police arrested Knutsen at 2:50 a.m. today in the 100 block, Stephenson Avenue. Knutsen was not involved in an accident.

Coyne Case Reaches Jury

The case of John C. Coyne Jr. of Escanaba, charged with negligent homicide in the death of Donald Timler of Gladstone, went to the jury in Circuit Court this morning at 10:15. No verdict has been reached up to 1:30 today.

Judge Glenn W. Jackson gave instructions to the jury at the outset of the morning session.

The judge told the jury that to find Coyne guilty, it must find he was operating his car at an immoderate speed, or in a careless, reckless or negligent manner. He said the jurors should use as their yardstick of ordinary care, the care a person of ordinary prudence would have exercised in the same circumstances.

Last Acquittal No Defense

Judge Jackson told the jury that the defendant's acquittal last year of a charge of leaving the scene of the same accident was not a defense to the current proceedings. This, he said, is a separate charge, dealing with what happened before the impact; the earlier case dealt with what happened after the impact.

The judge said that guilt had to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt, but not beyond all doubt.

"It is for you to determine where the truth is," he told the jurors. "You are to use your own good common sense . . . in making your determination."

Yesterday afternoon saw the cross-examination of Coyne concluded by Prosecutor Nicholas Chapekis. Coyne did not deny to Chapekis being arrested for speeding in 1949, 1950 and 1952.

He testified that on the night of the accident he did not know two boys had been killed until a car pulled up by his own parked car and the driver told him.

Expert Witness Testifies

Dr. LeMoyné Snyder, a specialist in the practice of legal medicine, testified next. Snyder gave as his opinion that the Coyne car did not hit a person or persons who were standing up when hit.

He said that a driver with 20/20 corrected vision, driving a car approaching an object at 60 m. p. h. under conditions approximately those of the night of July 27, 1952 probably couldn't have identified an object in the road ahead of him as a human body. He said that five or six bottles of beer drunk over two and a half hours would not appreciably affect the reflexes needed for safe driving.

Chapekis summed up his case, and defense attorney Michael O'Hara, Menominee, followed with his summation. Chapekis again addressed the jury briefly.

cluded 15 Delta cases of tuberculosis, the same number reported from Menominee county in the same period.

No Typhoid Fever

Delta County had an average of 30 patients per month in Pinecrest sanatorium during 1952 and Menominee County had an average of 27 per month. Both counties had a monthly average of 24 cases in 1951.

A hundred and eleven tuberculosis suspects were revealed in the 5,564 chest x-rays taken here by the mobile unit in October last year, and these were followed by the department's nursing staff, together with contacts.

The annual report reveals that there were no cases of typhoid fever, diphtheria nor tetanus in the two counties last year.

Delta County had no fatalities; in 1949, 12 cases with two fatalities; in 1950, three cases and no fatalities; and in 1951, three cases and no fatalities.

The age distribution of the polio cases in 1952, by county, was as follows:

|             | Delta | Menominee |
|-------------|-------|-----------|
| 0-4 years   | 24    | 3         |
| 5-9 years   | 21    | 12        |
| 10-14 years | 5     | 1         |
| 15-19 years | 6     | 1         |
| 20-24 years | 2     | 1         |

Gayner Tells C-C That Bible Contains Answer To World In Confusion

Tracing the history of world evolution through five periods of confusion, E. J. Gayner, president of Brunswick Pulp & Paper Company, Brunswick, Ga., last night told the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce in annual dinner meeting that the Bible holds the answer to the present problem of world confusion.

Gayner was introduced by E. G. Bennett, president and general manager of the Escanaba Paper Company. Atty. John H. Root was toastmaster at the dinner in St. Joseph's parish hall attended by 200 Chamber of Commerce members and their wives.

Carl Benzinger, representing Lee Hendricks, Chamber of Commerce president, who was absent because of illness, briefly reviewed the Chamber accomplishments of the past year and said the organization is "dedicated to the service of its members and the community."

Through The Ages

Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, in Escanaba for an Upper Peninsula highway conference, extended his greetings. Entertainment included a group of songs by the Fortissimos, Barber Shop quartet.

Gayner in his talk stressed that the present state of world confusion is not new in the history of the world, and that through the ages great progress in civilization has followed such confusion.

Following the period in which the earth was formed, the Mineral Kingdom, there followed confusion until the Vegetable Kingdom developed. Confusion again was preliminary to the beginning of the Animal Kingdom, resulting in what Gayner described as the Human Kingdom of today.

The Cosmic Kingdom

The development of the Human Kingdom followed an orderly progression, with the decline and fall of former civilizations resulting in periods of confusion out of which grew a more vigorous culture with a world outlook.

Today's confusion, with the

The United States must find a formula for peace, a way to live in harmony with our world neighbors, the speaker said. "We must lead with that formula, a formula almost lost to us in our use of the atomic bomb," Gayner added.

That formula is contained in the Bible. "It is a simple, understandable, proven formula."

"The Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments, if applied, will save us and the world," Gayner concluded.

Ziegler Favors Bridge Across Straits, Hears Priorities For Roads

Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, told highway and civic leaders of the Upper Peninsula assembled last night at dinner in the Delta Hotel that he favors, and always had favored, a bridge across the Mackinac Straits, provided only that it be engineered and financially feasible.

"I am optimistic that the marketing of bridge bonds will start soon," he said.

Prior to his address, recommendations of a committee on highway development in the Upper Peninsula were read to Ziegler by George Bishop of Marquette. The recommendations reaffirmed the priority of US-2, US-41 and M-28, in the order named, for construction, hard-surfacing and maintenance in the Upper Peninsula; named succeeding priorities; supported a proposed Michigan Turnpike Authority; and urged active protest against the diversion away from the state of federal gasoline, oil

Role Of Religion In Mental Health Will Be Discussed

Religion's contribution to mental health will be discussed by Rev. James Bell at the sixth in a series of eight meetings on mental health at Club 314 Thursday evening.

Rev. Bell, pastor of the Escanaba First Presbyterian church, also will discuss some of the psychological tensions that religion sets up in people and some false aims of contemporary psychological counseling.

His address will show that while the ultimate aims of psychology and religion are the same, their methods are different, but not antagonistic.

The meeting, in the city recreation center, begins at 8 p. m.

Catholics Receive Brochure Of School

The Catholic people of Delta County this week are getting a pictorial preview of the new Catholic Central High School to be built in Escanaba.

In a memorial brochure mailed to all families in the area of service of the school, which is to be opened in the fall of 1954, the architect's drawing of the school and drawings of proposed classrooms, chapel and gymnasium are shown. The brochure, or booklet, also reveals floor plans of the school and reviews the history of Catholic Education in this region.

Through an error, the list of parishes taking part in the campaign to provide $500,000 to insure construction of the school, listed Sacred Heart Parish in Bark River. The parish is located in Schaffer.

The Rev. O'Neil D'Amour, executive chairman of the campaign for school funds, said that any Catholic family which does not receive a copy of the brochure by the end of this week may call at Campaign Headquarters, 1201 1st Ave. South, Escanaba, where a few copies are available.

Indian Legend And Song Theme For History Meet

Songs and legends of the Indians, presented by the great-granddaughter of Chief Kitch-Assinack (The Great Bluebird), will feature the Thursday evening program at the annual meeting of the Delta County Historical Society.

Mrs. Margaret Lambert, St. Ignace schoolteacher, whose father, the late Bert Isaac of Manistiquie, was the grandson of the famous chief and warrior of the Ottawas, will speak to the historical society at its 6:30 o'clock dinner meeting at the Delta Hotel.

Chief Great Blackbird in 1809 received the Peace and Friendship medal from President James Madison because of his friendship for the Americans. He assisted Henry Schoolcraft in acquiring material for his writings, upon which Longfellow based his classic "Song of Hiawatha", and aided the Jesuits in the translation of their teachings in the Indian language.

Mrs. Lambert graduated from Manistiquie High School and attended Central Michigan College at Mt. Pleasant where she received her teaching certificate. She is the wife of Joseph Lambert, formerly of St. Jacques. The Lamberts have five children.

Before resuming teaching five years ago, Mrs. Lambert assisted the late Dr. Hinsdale, professor of archaeology at University of Michigan, worked on a Michigan history project, and for several

Annual Escanaba Ice Revue Is Colorful Event You Must See

THE annual Escanaba ice revue opens tonight for the first of five performances, nightly Wednesday through Saturday, and the finale Sunday afternoon.

Escanaba rightfully takes great pride in its ice show, an extravaganza of amateur performance that follows an extremely high, almost professional, plane. It is a show that embraces a large number of performers, developing unusual talents and skills. It annually attracts visitors from all sections of the Upper Peninsula, who marvel at the exactness of the production numbers, the skill of the soloists and teams, the beauty of costuming and setting. In short, it is a show of considerable magnitude not usually seen in communities the size of Escanaba.

Since Escanaba has "graduated" no less than a dozen of its figure skaters into professional ranks, we know that Escanaba ice revue is something out of the ordinary. It has created and maintained a high level of excellence that makes the show sparkle.

This year's show is no exception. It is a high class extravaganza and one which all of Escanaba can well be proud.

It is not necessary to urge most Escanabans to see the ice revue. They will do so without urging because they are aware of the quality of the show. But if you are a newcomer to Escanaba or Delta County, we suggest that you make your reservations now for at least one performance of this show. You'll like it and you'll be proud of the people—your neighbors, per-

Peron's Stock Is Falling

PREMIER Stalin's cordial welcome to Argentine Ambassador Luis Bravo had its interesting aspects.

One could remember how bitterly Russia fought at San Francisco in 1945 to keep Argentina out of the United Nations. There was rich irony in the noble effort of the New York Daily Worker to put a nice face on this new meeting in Moscow.

One could recall, too, that August in 1939 when Stalin sat down with another totalitarian government—Hitler's—and cemented a non-aggression pact. Not to mention a commercial agreement.

This time Juan Peron, the Argentine dictator, is seeking a commercial pact of his own. If he gets it, and it involves sending strategic materials to Russia, Peron's stock is sure to hit an abyssal low in the eyes of world statesmen.

Possibly Peron thinks he has been amply compensated by having his ambassador so warmly received at so powerful a seat of government as the Kremlin. Peron is terribly vain and intensely jealous and resentful of the United States, with whom he must always contend for prestige in the Western Hemisphere.

A Stalin-Peron friendship would demonstrate beautifully the totally unprincipled character of both men and of their dictatorial regimes.

The Doctor Says... If Child Sucks Thumb at Age 4 Restraining Device Seems Wise

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Medical opinion is almost completely divided on some problems such as that brought up in today's first letter.

Q—Our daughter has been a thumb-sucker since birth. Our pediatrician told us to ignore her and she would gradually forget it. Now, however, at the age of four, her teeth protrude badly and her thumb is in her mouth incessantly. What should we do?

Mr. and Mrs. J. A.

A—Opinion varies apparently among pediatricians and also among orthodontists on the thumb-sucking habit. Some feel that it should be ignored in children under a year old, and others approve the use of some restraining device.

Some orthodontists are inclined to believe that continued thumb sucking will lead to protrusion of the teeth and deformity of the jaws but others feel that when protruding teeth or deformity occur, they are the result of something else.

Certainly, if the habit is continued to the age of four years and is not getting better, it would seem wise to try to do something about it by employing some form of mechanical restraint. If this is done, one must guard against the development of some substitute habit, or of some psychological difficulty, and suitable measures should therefore be worked out in conjunction with the physician.

Q—Which is worse, tuberculosis of the lungs or tuberculosis of the glands? How long does it take to clear up in both cases?

A—Generally speaking, tuberculosis of the glands is likely to clear up a little faster than tuberculosis of the lungs. This, however, is an unanswerable question since it depends on the extent of the diseased tissue in each case, on the treatment, and many other factors.

Q—Under what circumstances would it be necessary to dry up breast milk and feed it to a baby?

A—The presence of an abscess or other disease in the breast might make it desirable to suppress lactation. Inability of the baby to nurse and the impossibility of obtaining the breast milk by pump or other method might offer another reason.

Although an enormous number of babies do well without their mothers' milk, doctors are practically universally agreed that mother's milk is the best food for a newborn infant.

Q—I have been diagnosed as having acute pyelonephritis. What is the outlook for this condition and is pregnancy all right?

A—This is an inflammation, probably with germs, of the base of the kidney and the tube leading down to the bladder. The outlook when properly treated is usually good. I believe that most doctors would advise against pregnancy until an acute pyelonephritis became much better.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—According to the customary rules of journalism, this column should be written under a European date-line. However, a newspaperman travels so fast in these modern days of airplanes and collects so much material that you can't write it all before you find yourself home.

This column therefore is to report on one of the least envied, but most efficient men in Europe, Gen. Matthew Ridgway. To some extent he is also one of the most unpopular because he has inherited the disagreeable job of pulling the North Atlantic Pact organization together and making it meet its 50-division military goal.

Here are some of the things Ridgway is up against:

1. Too many ambassadors spoil the broth—So many diplomatic cooks are stirring the European defense soup that the Europeans play them off against each other. If they don't like the arms demands made by General Ridgway, they go over his head to roving NATO Ambassador William Draper.

If they don't like what Draper says they've been able to go to Deputy Ambassador Frederick Anderson; or to Ambassador Livingston Merchant, in charge of NATO political problems; or until recently to Ambassador Paul Porter, in charge of economic problems. Also, there is Luke Finlay, ambassador for coordinating military assistance and economic problems, and finally our regular U. S. Ambassador to France, James C. Dunn.

As gentle Gen. Omar Bradley suggested to Secretary Dulles in a briefing recently, "there are getting to be more Americans in Paris than Frenchmen."

2. Divided French Army—The French Army is split in loyalty between General De Gaulle, who is not in command, and the French government, which is in command. Thus, when the U. S. joint chiefs of staff asked the late Marshal De Lattre de Tassigny, commander in Indo-China, to accept a U. S. military aide, Tassigny hemmed and hawed, complained privately that it would put him under the command of "young Ridgway." Finally he asked advice, not from the French War Ministry in Paris, but from General De Gaulle. This was the equivalent of having Gen. Mark Clark in Tokyo ask ex-President Harry Truman in Independence, Mo., how he should operate in Korea. De Gaulle incidentally advised accepting the U. S. military aide.

3. Civilian meddling—Allied representatives on the NATO council, especially the British, are constantly muddying up the defense waters. Lord Ismay, the British representative, is a third-rate would-be statesman who hinders more than he helps. When General Ridgway made a speech before the council urging greater speed in building air bases, barracks, radar installations, etc., Lord Ismay and other civilian chiefs refused to let him publish it. They didn't want European populations to know how drastically they were cutting Ridgway's proposed budget.

These permanent installations originally were estimated at $400,000,000, then cut to $176,000,000, then arbitrarily cut by civilian NATO chiefs by another $83,000,000. Yet these permanent installations are all essential to the defense of Europe. Building them now will save money in the long run.

4. Difficult inheritance—Twice General Ridgway has taken over jobs from headline-famous predecessors. He succeeded MacArthur in Tokyo and Eisenhower in Paris. Both have been difficult inheritances.

In Paris, Ridgway's tough and realistic policy has been rather a sudden change from Eisenhower's charm and diplomacy. Actually it took a man like Eisenhower to bring the European nations together on the same team, but now a little of Ridgway's realism is necessary to make them face the facts.

For instance, he has been sending rather discouraging reports to the Pentagon, pointing out some glaring deficiencies in European defense.

The cables have been carefully worded so as not to reflect on his predecessor, but Ridgway has reported that while NATO nations have been frantically recruiting 50 combat divisions, no provision had been made for service troops. Thus, in case of a Russian attack, it would be left up to each of the 14 individual nations to furnish supplies over extremely tangled supply lines.

Ridgway also has informed the Pentagon that our supply centers were wide open to air attack, and that no provision had been made for handling the refugees who clogged military routes and bogged down defending armies when Hitler attacked.

Some of these disagreeable realities, reported back to Washington, probably led to the rash of stories that Ridgway would resign. When the NATO commander heard the stories, he phoned General Bradley in Washington and asked: "Do you want me to resign?"

The answer was "No."

The above, of course, is the blacker side of the European defense picture—the side that needs to be remedied. However, the most important fact is that 14 nations are deeply working together in an effort to pool their armies and are stationing foreign troops on their soil. This is an effort unprecedented in time of peace. And despite all the hitches and headaches it can lead to better all-round cooperation both for peace and—if it must happen—war.

Can Be Done---But It Won't Be Easy

Texas Man Champions 'Wetbacks' In Crusade For Outcast Peons

HARLINGEN, Texas—(NEA) — Out in the dust-dry, tar-soot sunlight in towns like this along the Rio Grande, Frank Ferree has turned himself into a blazing crusade.

His cause is the "wetback"—the Mexican farm worker who has crossed the Rio Grande illegally in search of American wages. More than a half-million Mexican peons elude the border patrol each year, only to find themselves out-laws and outcasts.

"They can't bargain for wages," Ferree declared. "Or for medical care or housing or food. They have to take what they can get. They have no rights in America."

The term "wetback" marks a man who has fled Mexico by swimming the river.

"And the water never dries," Ferree said, "at least in his neighbor's mind. But that's pretty far from the whole truth."

In real life, according to Ferree, the Texas farmer finds a source of cheap, steady labor in the "wet-back." It's worth his effort to pay boatmen to ferry the illegal Mexicans.

"A man's back hardly ever gets wet in a row boat," Ferree said. For eight years Ferree has made it his business to care for stranded Mexicans who have no work, no food, and no one to help them. A giant of a man in white clothes and a wide-brimmed hat, Ferree has come to be called "the friend of the wetback."

He has turned part of his house into a shelter. And bit by bit he has sold his belongings to pay for the food and medicine he gives to the Mexicans. Bus lines and airplane companies have given him free service in his journeys back and forth across the border.

Although Ferree has made a full-time job of his caring for the desperate Mexican families, he is quick to point out that many border-town farmers care well for their frightened, hungry, foreign-tongued help.

"It's the farmer who exploits them who has turned this situation into a roaring problem."

"I've seen families unloaded from a farmer's truck on a hot morning. They don't have any food. And the kids cry for water. All they have is the farmer's promise that he's gone to town to get money for their wages. And of course, he never comes back."

Ferree came to Texas from his home state of Nebraska after he had been a mail-carrier, telephone lineman, and railroad radio operator.

"I bought 23 acres of land—sight unseen—and decided to settle down," he explained. He was 50 years old, unmarried. It was time for something permanent.

Then the Mexican problem exploded into his life. He watched a group of surveyors finish their work and leave. And then he saw a group of Mexicans who had been hiding in the mesquite bushes rush to the spot and pick up the remains of a lunch.

"Those were men in America and they were eating banana peels. Eating garbage," Ferree decided to do something about it. He works alone, most of the time. Now and then he hires young girls to act as visiting nurses and visit the Mexican families who have been returned across the border without money or food.

Articles in the local newspaper about his work, radio broadcasts, the letters he writes, all bring in donations. But even that has not been enough. And so he has sold his land until there remains only his house on one acre.

Ferree would like to see a change in our international agreement with Mexico. He is certain that the Mexican is caught in an economic dilemma, and he is as certain that we can solve that problem and not endanger our own economy.

It looks like the American southwest is going to have Mexican labor, he predicts. Why must it be "wetback" labor? The answer, he said, is not a wider river. It's more bridges.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

LOOKING AHEAD—"Today we are considering an Upper Peninsula-wide highway program—projected to meet the needs of the next 15 to 20 years."

So said George Bishop of Marquette, secretary-manager of the U. P. Development Bureau, in connection with the highway conference held in Escanaba yesterday.

The Upper Peninsula has been looking ahead with its road program for a good many years, according to State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

He harked back to a similar highway planning conference of 1927, when US-2 was No. 1, US-41 was No. 2 and M-28 was No. 3, the priority list.

But George Koronski, superintendent of the Gogebic County road commission, filled in the chronological gap by pointing out that about 1933 or '36 Murray D. "Pat" Van Wagoner, then highway commissioner, called a similar conference in which the "Big Three" route priorities were reaffirmed.

HIGHWAYS AND TOLLS—Perhaps there was previously no mention of Van Wagoner at the highway conference out of politeness to Commissioner Ziegler. Van Wagoner was and still is a Democrat.

The conference here was, for all intents and purposes, very successful. It brought a meeting of minds from all sections of the U. P.

Out of the conference came certain recommendations on what the U. P. expects in highway improvements in the years ahead, depending on the amount of money available, of course. With agreement on what routes shall be next improved, however, the accomplishment should be easier. At least the representatives in the various areas of the region will not be bucking each other.

State Senator Joseph Cloon of Wakefield pointed out that a proposed bill to establish toll highways in Michigan has his support—and should also receive the support of other representatives and the public.

Toll roads, he said, will be privately financed and built. Such super-highways will connect metropolitan areas downstate, leaving more state highway funds for projects elsewhere.

AFTER THE 'BIG THREE'—Primary problem for the delegates from the 15 counties of the Upper Peninsula was: What roads should be improved after US-2, US-41 and M-28 are completed?

Commissioner Ziegler pointed out that US-2 is all paved, there is little work left on US-41, and M-28's unpaved sections are being reduced annually.

"We will not stop construction on any of them," said the commissioner. "But they are near enough completed that it is up to you to decide what will come next."

This was a sticker for the delegates, most of whom had come to the meeting to fight for some pet project in their own backyards. Now they were being asked to think beyond county lines, to consider what would be best for everybody in the Upper Peninsula.

THE BREAK-DOWN—This wasn't easy for them to do. They were still obligated to the folks back home. Those pet projects at least had to be talked about.

Joseph Rahilly, heading a delegation from Luce county, said that M-117 leading from US-2 to Newberry, his home town, was the "logical road" for improvement.

Paul W. Goodman, vice president of the Gwinn Lions Club, spoke for M-35 improvement from Gwinn north to Ishpeming. He was supported by Tom Pellow, formerly of Escanaba, now of Ishpeming, who said that stretch of M-35 has "six curves per mile and eleven one-way bridges" from Negaunee to Ishpeming.

Senator Cloon spoke up for M-64 leading to the White Pine mine in Ontonagon county, where $70 million is being spent in mining development. A community of 6,000 persons will be established. M-64 should be given priority, he said.

Spokesmen from Chippewa county wanted quite a bit of road work, including a roadway along the shoreline through DeTour and up the St. Mary's River. That was out, they said the highway commissioner told them.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Because my education was in the hands of purists, there are certain usages that I was taught to abhor. By the time I was old enough to reason things out for myself, habits were too firmly established to permit me to change my own speech, and I am always conscious of a slight shock when others use these forbidden phrases.

Loan, I was taught, should never be used as a verb. One should never say, "I will loan you the money," or "He loaned me his book," my teachers insisted, but "I will lend you the money," and "He lent me his book." Loan was to be used only as a noun. To use it properly, one might say, "I will grant you a loan of the money," or "He made me a loan of his book."

You can always tell what some people are going to do next—nothing!

Stiff collars are melted by fat men who laugh at all the foolish styles women wear.

Boy 8½ Feet Tall Not Complaining

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As you can imagine, it's no fun being 8½ feet tall.

But Max Palmer, the Clarksdale, Miss., farm boy who grew to that height, doesn't do too much complaining about his plight.

"I figure that's the way it was meant to be," he remarks, "so I might as well accept it."

He's also making it pay off—not as a circus attraction but as a movie actor. He has landed his second part in Hollywood and is lining up more.

Plays "Killer Ape"

Right now he's playing the title role in "The Killer Ape" with Johnny Weissmuller. Max made his film debut as a Martian in "Invaders From Mars." He's up for a role as bodyguard to a young boy in "The Robe." The latter will be made in the big-screen Cinemascope, and Max chuckled over the idea that the big-screen trend will aid his career.

"The studios seem to make enough adventure pictures so I could keep working," he added. Things are looking up for Max, who first started to know the troubles of being tall when he was 14. He was a normal boy until that age. "Then something went haywire," he said.

Shot Up In 5 Years
Max, whose parents and three sisters are normal size, shot up to his present height in five years. At 19, he stopped growing upwards, although he continued to put on weight. Now 25, he scales 450 pounds.

Somehow he managed to continue a normal life. He played basketball in school and worked on the farm. Then he traveled around, appearing on TV and playing pro basketball in Chicago. He had offers to tour with circuses and carnivals, but turned them down. His reasons were interesting.

"It's a rough life, traveling all the time," he commented. "And you don't have any freedom. The people that run the show don't want you to appear in public. You're supposed to stay hidden so folks will pay to see you."

Cars Won't Fit

Life is a series of inconveniences for Max. I asked him if he drives a car.

"Nope. Can't find one that'll fit me."

When he travels any distance, he has to take the train. But a Pullman berth is out of the question. He must sleep in the coach cars, and pay for two seats at that.

Clothing is another headache. He wears a size 60 coat and naturally has all his clothes made especially. He has never owned a suit, preferring sport coats and slacks. One such outfit runs him $200.

His shoes are equally immense. He wears a Size 20 on one foot and a 21 on the other. He can wear a pair for about a year. The cost: $100. He generally buys high shoes or boots, such as he used to wear on the farm.

Girl Friend In Texas

What about sleeping? In his present hotel room, he sleeps in a normal-size bed without a headboard. A couch takes care of the overflow. At home he had a bed that was 9 by 6 feet, and he says he'll hunt for one here if his movie career prospers.

Max tries to lead as normal a life as he can, considering his size. He dates often, and is reported to have a favorite girl friend in Texas.

In "Killer Ape" scenes, he towers above Weissmuller, who is a mere 6 feet 4. The studio has Max decked out in a plastic nose, hairy face and a furry costume. The press department proudly points out that it takes six bear skins to cover him.

Start On Mackinac Bridge Construction Set For April First

LANSING (AP)—The State Administrative Board has been asked to prepare itself to act quickly to permit the start of construction of the Mackinac Straits Bridge by April 1.

Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the bridge authority, told the board it would be asked about the middle of March to approve the preliminary preliminary to the actual sale of more than $90,000,000 in revenue bonds before the end of March.

The board must act quickly, Brown said, to preserve the rate of interest offered by the prospective bond buyers.

John H. Nunneley, bridge authority counsel, told the board that the preliminary prospectus of the bonds was expected to be in the hands of the possible buyers in two weeks.

Brown reported that the Detroit office of the U. S. Corps of Engineers has forwarded its approval of the bridge to Washington. The deadline for objections by anyone interested passed last Friday, Brown said, with no objections being filed.

In previous years the Lake Carriers Association has always opposed the bridge as a hazard to navigation. He added that this time, however, they wrote the Authority and the Corps of Engineers that they had no objections.

Brown said that the bid for construction of the superstructure of the bridge for $42,000,000 by the American Bridge Division of U. S. Steel Corp., has been recommended for acceptance to the full bridge authority.

Brown said that the newest estimates of the total cost of the bridge range between $86,900,000 to $93,000,000.

Nations Refuse To Aid In Korea

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Twelve members of the Arab-Asian bloc in the United Nations reportedly have decided to reject any request from the United States or the U. N. for troops or supplies for the Korean War. None of the 12 is furnishing anything now.

Diplomatic sources reported this was the outcome of private Arab-Asian talks on what to do in the U. N. Assembly reconvening next Tuesday.

Indonesia reportedly hinted at a caucus last week that the U. S. should make up losses suffered because her trade with Red China was cut by the U. N. embargo on strategic materials for the Communist opponent in Korea.

Nations reported planning to refuse any appeal for troops and supplies were Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Liberia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

India was said to have indicated she would not extend her help beyond the medical unit she has in Korea. Of the 15 countries which met last week, The Philippines and Thailand are the only two with troops in Korea. They expect to continue sending them. Ethiopia, which sometimes acts with the bloc, also has troops in Korea.

reports—is being steadily expanded and improved. Dean, in his Jan. 30 statement, spoke laconically of the "scientific and technical evidence" which he said left no doubt of the existence of atomic weapons in the USSR.

Eisenhower's evident interest in the atomic program has raised some speculation whether he might choose to witness one or more of the test explosions in the spring test series in Nevada, or perhaps one of the later big-scale experimental shots at Eniwetok in the Pacific next fall.

Truman—during whose administration a score or more test shots were fired—never attended any of the experiments.

Naval Blockade Would Be Rough On Chinese Reds

has few good roads and few rail lines. Most of their shipping is by sea, river and canal. To deny them coastal traffic would hurt them badly.

Submarines Next?

Naturally the Reds could be expected to hit back at any stifling blockade.

Red China has no Navy now of any consequence, but Soucek takes this view:

"If there is nothing to keep the Russians from giving the Chinese planes and guns, there probably is no reason why they wouldn't give China submarines too."

There have been Washington estimates that Russia has as many as 80 or more submarines in the Far East.

Russia has submarines based at Dairen and Vladivostok. Some may be at the Chinese ports of Tsingtao and Chefoo and others probably are nested on the island of Sakhalin, north of Japan and up the wide and deep rivers of Siberia.

Democrats Get Best Seats At Eisenhower Luncheon On Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a reason why some House Democrats have been grinning slyly at their unresponsive Republican colleagues of late.

Someone let the cat out of the bag today.

It seems that President Eisenhower's bipartisan luncheon for members of Congress have been operating on a seniority protocol system—the oldest members in length of service are seated nearest the President at the head of the table.

And Democrats, with 20 years of Democratic administrations behind them, have been enjoying the distinguished places around the President. Most Republicans, even though in power, are down the table.

"They can listen—if they lean forward a little bit," remarked one favored Democrat.

Actress Sues Radio Show For $150,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A $150,000 suit has been filed by actress Joan Miller against the National Broadcasting Company and others, claiming her name has been used for that of a disreputable Nazi spy in the radio show "Dangerous Assignment."

Miss Miller said in her complaint yesterday that she performed "highly confidential and restricted work" for the Office of War Information during World War II, and that for this reason use of her name in the manner complained of was particularly injurious.

Radio producer Don Sharpe and actor Brian Donlevy were named co-defendants.

Hazel Park Bar Killer Identified

PONTIAC (AP)—Harold Hummel, 22, self-styled "Billy the Kid," was pointed out by a Hazel Park bar hand-man yesterday as the slayer of a bar operator and his son.

Neal Black, 51, whose bosses were slain last Aug. 19 at their bar, testified at the trial of Hummel and Michael J. Gisendi, 23, accused of the crimes. The trial opened Tuesday before Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Hummel, a reformatory escapee, wore a large cowboy hat as he walked into the courtroom with Gisendi to face the first degree murder charge.

Gisendi is accused of being Hummel's accomplice in the robbery attempt that ended in the slaying of Vidos Vinokurov, 60, and his son, Joseph, 31.

Oakland County Prosecutor Fred C. Ziem said in an opening statement that first-degree convictions would be sought of both Hummel and Gisendi.

Hummel has admitted being the triggerman in the killings, police said.

John F. Allen, court-appointed attorney for Hummel, said Hummel's defense would be innocent because of insanity.

Gisendi's attorney, John D. O'Connell, said Gisendi was innocent in the shooting.

The trial was scheduled to resume this afternoon.

has done for the university in the past several years and also to show them such "substandard" buildings as the pharmacology building and the automotive laboratory.

Hatcher later said "restoration of buildings to their former efficiency" could be achieved with "about $5,000,000 a year over a ten-year period."

Hatcher explained that there had been no major outlay of funds at the University during a 17-year period following World War I, chiefly as a result of the depression.

The Michigan glee club, which sang for the lawmakers, gave special recognition to Sen. Creighton Coleman of Marshall, who was celebrating his 41st birthday. A Michigan graduate, Coleman once waited on tables in the Michigan Union, where he and his colleagues were feted.

Wall Street

By RADAR WINGET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market presented a ragged price front today with the tendency to the downside much of the time.

Trading was highly selective with cross-currents of price decontrol moves and earnings and dividend reports exerting individual pressures either way.

The changes ran from around a point higher to a little less than a point lower with few exceptions.

Higher stocks included New York Central, Union Pacific, Gulf Oil, Republic Steel, Studebaker, Chrysler, Phelps Dodge, and U. S. Gypsum.

Lower were Paramount Theaters, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Air Reduction, and Woolworth.

Packard was active and steady after directors declared a dividend of 20 cents. Packard opened on 3,400 shares unchanged at 6. That compares with a 1952-53 high-low of 6 3/4-4 1/8.

The Soo Line Railroad, which fell 3 1/2 yesterday when a dividend was passed, held steady today.

Congress Must Rest Its Head

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON—We have got to keep our congressmen comfortable fellow taxpayers, so they can work hard for us. One hundred and thirty dollars each for high-backed swivel chairs, so a lawgiver can rest his head while swiveling and/or thinking seems a small-enough price to me.

This tale of congressional house-keeping has to do with the two office buildings for representatives, the old and the new. The old is just that: Roomy, white-marbled, old-fashioned, high-ceilinged and equipped with a restful, high-backed chair for each statesman.

The new building across the street is a good deal snappier in decor. Its special built-to-order furniture blends in nicely with the modern architecture and the management figures that this is no place for chairs with headrests. Each congressman who inhabits the new building has what is known as a half-back swivel, such as are common in the offices of executives all over the land.

Rest Weary Heads

Until last year there was a rule that congressmen moving from the old building to the new had to leave their comfy chairs behind. But you know congressmen. Some of 'em brought along their seats with the built-in head cushions. Some others tried to, but were stymied by the new tenants in their old offices. These latter knew a good thing when they felt it and they refused to give up their form-fitting swivels.

So the gentlemen with the weary necks and no place to rest 'em took their troubles to Lyle O. Snyder, clerk of the House, who is in charge of such things. Snyder was polite about it, but there wasn't much he could do because he'd already spent his furniture money. And he still didn't have enough. He needed $58,750 extra to repair the stuff and buy new carpets to replace those that couldn't be patched any more.

Clerk Snyder eventually turned up before a ways and means sub-committee to ask for the $58,750. The gentlemen, unfortunately, were in a mood to save money, not to spend it, but the clerk made a good case. Take the $14,000 he wanted for new carpets to be put under the high chairs in the old building; the present ones had been turned and patched so often that there wasn't much left to sew.

He also told of the need for packing boxes, in which lawmakers customarily preserve their papers of state and he said if he could sell some of the old desks cluttering up the hall by his offices he might even salvage a little cash.

Just $130 Each

Then he brought up the $130 high-backed chairs. He didn't ask for the money, you understand, but he did think the committee holding the cash ought to know the situation in re comfort for congressional head. He told the tale of the restless heads in the new House office building much as I've recounted it here and added that many of the denizens of this structure had asked him for high-back swivels. He said he had quite a large backlog of requests.

"If it is the pleasure of the committee to supply a high-back chair for each member in the new House office building," he continued, "the cost would be $29,250. They cost $130 apiece. There would be 225 of them."

"What kind of chair do they have now?" inquired Chairman Fred E. Busbey (R-Ill.) who has labored in comfort these many years in an old old building, high-back chair.

"They have what they call a half-back chair," replied Clerk Snyder.

"It is a small swivel chair," added Rep. Michael J. Kirwan (D-Ohio), who occupies one, obviously, in the new building.

Further questioning of the clerk brought out that fact that if he does spend the $29,250 for new chairs with head pads for congressmen, their assistants will make good use of the old, padless ones. Money well spent, says I. Wish I had a seat with a headrest right now.

Prison Inmate Left $279,888 By Wife

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — When James G. Plunkett gets out of State Prison, maybe in three years, he can claim the $279,888 estate his wife left him in her will.

He's serving a five to eight-year term because he fatally shot her Nov. 1, 1949.

Plunkett was indicted for second degree murder, but was convicted of manslaughter. Since he was convicted of the lesser charge he is entitled to the inheritance, the Connecticut Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

A Connecticut law prohibits inheritance by homicide but it mentions only first and second degree murder, not manslaughter.

Chief Justice Allyn Brown, who wrote the opinion, said the law "is so clear and free of ambiguity" there can be no mistaking its meaning.

Russians Have Tried Out Atomic Weapons, Eisenhower Believes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says he believes it is absolutely true that Soviet Russia has exploded atomic weapons. He told a news conference he agrees with a statement by Gordon

Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, that the Russians have achieved three explosions of atomic weapons.

Dean made the statement recently after former President Truman expressed doubt that the Soviet Union had a workable atomic bomb.

It was the second time Eisenhower had spoken out to contradict the view expressed by Truman.

The first time was in his State of the Union message when Eisenhower said this government has incontrovertible evidence that the Russians have atomic weapons.

Red China Should Be In UN, Republican From Vermont Says

MONTREAL (AP)—U. S. Sen. Ralph E. Flanders, Vermont Republican, said that Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations "if she will come out from behind the curtain."

"All the precedents in diplomacy say that no matter how much we dislike her form of government, we shouldn't refuse China admission to the society of nations because she is Communist," he declared in an address to the Society of Friends (Quakers) here.

Massaging Restores Denver Girl's Heart

DENVER (AP)—A Denver girl was alive but in critical condition after a doctor massaged her heart back into action.

Doctors said Sharlene Haddon, 16, was for all intents and purposes dead when she was brought to the hospital from her home. No heart beat could be detected and she had stopped breathing.

At the hospital, a doctor opened her chest, spread ribs by hand and massaged the heart. Her breathing failed to return to normal and she was put in an iron lung.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Adeline Haddon, said her daughter had been ill for about two weeks, apparently suffering from flu.

Bond Buying Boosted By Mrs. Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower called on the women of America to use their influence in persuading families not now participating to adopt the plan the plan of buying a savings bond a month.

She did so in a statement, the first formal one she issued since her husband became president, in connection with a reception for 100 members of the National Women's Committee for the Sale of Defense Bonds.

"The women of America have never failed to respond to their country's call and I am sure they will join in making this campaign a success," she said.

President Requests Economic Consultant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources predicted President Eisenhower soon will send to Capitol Hill a plan to replace the three-man Council of Economic Advisers with a single White House economic consultant.

The tipoff came when the House Appropriations Committee turned down a request for $75,000 to finance the economic council and approved instead a $25,000 allotment to give the President an economic consultant.

Indian Who Can Not Speak English Wins Up Basic Training

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—A Navajo Indian who went through 16 weeks of basic training without being able to speak English will be sent overseas unless given a hardship discharge, an Army spokesman said.

The spokesman said an investigation has been started to determine if such a discharge is merited by Pvt. Ralph Descheny, 20, of Chinle, Ariz.

The chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, Sam Ahkeah, recently wrote the commanding officer of this Army post asking that Descheny be released to resume helping his parents work their farm on an Indian reservation near Chinle.

Descheny recently finished basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. The Army said he was rated an "excellent soldier" by his commanding officer.

A friend of Descheny who was with him in Missouri said the Indian got through by watching others and doing what they did. The Army said it was not unprecedented to send a soldier overseas who spoke no English.

State Of Maryland Won't Take On Russia

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The state of Maryland isn't going to "take on" big Russia, not just yet anyway.

The State Senate Monday night turned down by a 15-12 margin a bill that would have excused all foreign diplomats except those of the Soviet Union from paying the state's 2 per cent auto-titling tax.

Both Democratic and Republican floor leaders urged the measure. Asked if an "aye" vote would mean war between Maryland and Russia, Democratic Majority Leader Goldstein replied: "I hope so. I wouldn't be a bit reluctant to go to war to fight Russia if we had to right now."

Housewife Running Manufacturing Plant

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A housewife who would rather have a precision lathe than a mink coat owns her own manufacturing plant which makes all kinds of metal gadgets including some for government defense.

Mrs. Mary P. Anderson, who is president of the Wayne Engineering Co. in Ontario Township, has as her chief item a lipstick spreader about the size of a lady's little finger. It was the development of this gadget that got her into the manufacturing business about two years ago.

Interested in things mechanical since childhood, Mrs. Anderson forsakes the shop two days a week to act as her own field representative in seeking new contracts.

Benjamin Franklin is believed to have drawn the first chart giving the approximate location of the Gulf Stream.

I HAVE NOTHING BUT PRAISE FOR O-JIB-WA BITTERS

"I want to share with other sufferers of rheumatism and arthritis my good fortune in discovering O-JIB-WA BITTERS," says Mrs. John Machine, 26801 Norfolk, Inkster, Michigan.

"I am really happy about O-JIB-WA BITTERS. When I find something as good as this, I am always anxious to share it with others. My right knee swelled up last fall and became very stiff and painful. Of course, I tried everything including plaster and rub- bing, but still it pained. I had to force myself to do my housework. My knee pained so that my husband had to help me into bed. It got so I could hardly move at all, so about all I could do was sit on the couch all day. As my knee was continually getting stiffer and causing more pain, both my husband and I were afraid that I might be an invalid for the rest of my life. Someone told him about O-JIB-WA and he stopped on his way home from work and brought home a bottle. I began taking it at once, and before I had taken it 10 days, my knee was much better, and in just 20 days, all the pain and swelling was gone, and my knee was completely better. O-JIB-WA BITTERS also helped my stomach, as I used to suffer from gas and indigestion, but don't anymore. My husband also took O-JIB-WA for his hip, and like me, got fine results. My husband works at Ford's and anytime either of us hear of anyone with an ache or pain, we always tell them about O-JIB-WA. Many of these people have used this wonderful medicine and have nothing but praise continually getting stiffer and for it."

Why does the telephone company...

train operators to pronounce words a different way?

Why do they say "fi-iv" instead of "five," "ni-en" instead of "nine"? And why do they use letters instead of words?

Here's the answer:

"Five" sounds like "nine," so training operators to say "fi-iv" and "ni-en" helps prevent wrong numbers, saves time on the line, and avoids an extra call to get the right number.

Code letters save time, too.

Instead of saying to another operator: "About that call on which you tried to reach Mr. Jones in Chicago, we have Mr. Jones on the line now," operators say, "W. H. with Mr. Jones in Chicago."

Saying words a different way, and using code words, may save only seconds. But multiply these seconds by the millions of calls Michigan Bell operators handle every day and the savings become enormous.

Your telephone company is constantly on the lookout for ways of keeping costs down. That's one of the reasons why telephone service hasn't gone up in price nearly as much as most other things you buy.

Michigan Auto License System Is In Bad Mess

(Editors Note—This is the first of a series of articles on Michigan's archaic system of allowing unfit automobile drivers upon its streets and highways.)

By HARRY TAYLOR

The State of Michigan is issuing licenses to kill!

Slips of papers called drivers' licenses, too easy to obtain and too easy to keep, permit the unfit to drive high powered automobiles.

The result: 1,700 persons were killed in Michigan traffic accidents last year and 47,215 were injured, the worst record in the state's history.

And all but a few of these deaths and injuries were caused by drivers whom the State of Michigan officially considers proper persons to drive.

Twelve top license and traffic officials interviewed were in agreement that our drivers' license procedure and administration—stressing the administration—are a generation behind times.

All agree that the unfit driver behind the wheel is the greatest traffic threat and all agree that Michigan does not now keep potential killer-drivers off the highways.

Change Is Demanded

In addition to officials, a score of semi-public groups, with interest in traffic, have demanded changes. Numerous meetings are scheduled to plan action. Bills are being considered for the legislature.

Changes will have direct effect upon 3,000,000 drivers already licensed and upon another 1,000,000 who will seek licenses this year. Any action will have indirect effect on the many millions who ride in automobiles or attempt to walk across a street.

Three broad categories of faults appear in the licensing system:

No uniform standards are enforced in the issuance of licenses and no single agency has full jurisdiction.

There is a lack of sufficiently comprehensive tests and of modern facilities in the issuance of licenses.

Few License Suspensions

There is tragic lack of a license suspension and revocation system to chase bad drivers off the highways before they cause death or injury.

Behind all these are the ever-present basic lacks—lack of manpower, lack of money and lack of conscience on the part of many license examiners.

The situation has become such that Michigan—the automobile state—now ranks a bad sixth among the nation's eight largest and most important states in drivers' license procedure, according to an analysis by the National Safety Council.

Rated with all the 48 states, Michigan is 30th.

Of all traffic classifications—accidents, enforcement, legislation, engineering, public information and safety organization—only in traffic legislation and drivers' license procedure does Michigan make a poor showing.

Most of the accusing fingers point at outstate areas where 1,301 part time examiners approved a share of more than 1,000,000 licenses issued in Michigan last year.

License by Phone

State Police in Lansing report their favorite illustrations: The small town police officer who says:

"Just sign your name at the bottom and I'll fill in the examination for you."

Or the licenses obtained—actually—by telephone.

Or the hundreds of examiners who, contrary to the regulations, approve licenses without behind-the-wheel driving tests.

The Secretary of State's office reports the case of the county sheriff who approved licenses for two of his constituents who were later found to be receiving state aid for the blind.

Detroit and some other cities are given high praise for rigid examination procedures, to the extent permitted by regulations, but here, too, there are classic cases.

One motorist arrested on a minor violation had four Michigan driver's licenses, two issued in Detroit. He used the same last name in all cases but changed his first name for each new license.

He thought it "would be handy to have a spare, or two, in case one license was suspended," the driver told police.

Fictitious Addresses

Only a few days ago a Detroit motorist whose license had been suspended was back in Traffic Court again—this time displaying a chauffeur's license he had obtained in the meantime.

All that could be done was to attempt to repair that loophole in the law, like sewing one small patch on a pair of tattered and torn trousers.

The Detroit Traffic Court reports hundreds of licenses have been issued to drivers applying under fictitious names.

A recent newspaper story told of a driver who was an alcoholic, had been convicted 27 times for drunkenness. But nothing had been done to restrict his driving until he was caught once when driving drunk.

Even should Detroit achieve perfection in screening license applicants, Detroit streets still would overflow with unfit drivers because of the thousands of rural and suburban motorists.

An indication of how many outside drivers are Detroit violators appears in warrant figures at Traffic Court. Of 4,762 warrants issued in November, 1,317 were for drivers who lived outside Detroit. In October, 1,235 had addresses outside Detroit limits. Consistently, 25 per cent or more of the traffic violators for who warrants are issued live outside Detroit.

Some of the needs and some of the solutions proposed for chasing bad drivers off the highways will be detailed in following stories of this series.

Congressional Quiz

By Congressional Quarterly

1. Q—How much money will the federal government collect during the current fiscal year?

A—The fiscal year 1953 will end June 30, 1953, and it is estimated that total receipts will be $67.7 billion. Expenditures for the year are estimated at $79 billion, leaving a deficit of $10.3 billion.

Q—If the new Congress takes no action on income taxes in 1953 will taxes remain the same as they are now?

A—No. The 82nd Congress stipulated that individual and corporate income taxes will revert to previous lower rates on Dec. 31, 1953, unless Congress passes new legislation.

3. Q—Does Congress determine all United States foreign policy?

A—Under the Constitution the President sets foreign policy to be executed by the State Department. However, the Constitution also gives certain powers to Congress which do in effect enable it to determine some aspects of foreign policy. For example, the Secretary of State, although appointed by the President, must be confirmed by the Senate. The same is true of ambassadors to foreign countries. It takes a two-thirds vote in the Senate to approve treaties, all financial measures affecting foreign policy must pass both houses of Congress, and two-house approval is necessary for the declaration of war. The Senate has more power than the House of Representatives in foreign affairs.

4. Q—Can the President appoint to his cabinet men from the opposing political party?

A—Yes, although generally it is not done. President-elect D. Eisenhower caused much political comment when he crossed party lines to name Democrat Martin P. Durkin of Chicago to be the new Secretary of Labor. Durkin is president of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters (AFL), and supported the Presidential candidacy of Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois against Eisenhower.

5. Q—Did Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) endorse all of President-elect Eisenhower's cabinet appointments?

A—No. Sen. Taft criticized the appointment of Martin P. Durkin of Chicago as Secretary of Labor. Taft said he "acquiesced in many" of Eisenhower's cabinet appointments, although his recommendations were not followed except for that of Ezra T. Benson of Utah as Secretary of Agriculture.

Newlyweds Start Crime Prevention Checkup In U. S. A.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

David and Nancy Holmes of Wichita, Kan., selected as typical U. S. newlyweds, have kicked off a campaign which is going on all over the country this week.

David, 23-year-old Air Force sergeant, married Nancy, 19-year-old daughter of Maj. Ralph Casey, provost marshal of the Wichita Air Force Base, last December. They want to settle down and raise a family. But first they want to know exactly what hazards they must hurdle to bring up children successfully in our chaotic world.

So a couple of weeks ago David and Nancy, at invitation of Dr. Frank H. Harris, president of the Wichita Exchange Club, agreed to investigate conditions in their own home town, as a sort of forerunner of National Crime Prevention Week, which is this week.

They had heard a lot about the rising rate of juvenile crime and delinquency; they had seen sons and daughters of so-called good families caught in the web of shocking crimes. If modern kids had to be subjected to criminal influences in schools and neighborhood gangs, they weren't so sure that they wanted to risk starting a family.

Starting with a visit to 22, they asked Mayor Russel Jump what facilities the city provided to safeguard family life. Then their tour got under way in earnest.

The newlyweds visited the Family Consultation Service, one of 300 of its kind affiliated with the Family Service Association of America, where they saw how the organization helps problem children by working with their parents.

They visited the Child Guidance Center, where they learned of the agency's work with children sent to them from schools and the juvenile courts.

Then they visited the Council of Churches, where they discussed the value of religious guidance in the development of a secure family life.

They paid a call on the commissioner of Boy Scouts, Henry Gott, and learned that the percentage of crime among Boy Scouts is less than one half of 1 per cent. Similar discussions were held with the Girl Scout commissioner.

At the end of their tour David and Nancy felt better about their home town. They had no idea of the number of services available to married couples to help them keep their family circle safe.

The Wichita Crime Prevention Campaign took place the last week in January, with all civic organizations, churches and clubs participating.

Similar campaigns are going on throughout the nation this week, as a well-planned offensive against

The Teltschiks, Duo-Pianists In Concert Saturday

The Teltschiks from Texas, duo-pianists, will present the second concert of the Community Concert series Saturday, Feb. 21, at 8:15 p. m. in William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium, Escanaba.

Born in Floresville, Tex., of Austrian parents, Alfred and Herbert Teltschik began their musical training at an early age under the guidance of their father, an old-world musician. Later when the family moved to Houston the boys continued studying at home until they were old enough to enter the Juillard School of Music in New York City. Upon graduating from Juillard they returned to Houston to teach in the city's public schools and in their own studio, where, to satisfy their own love of making music for audiences they began giving two-piano recitals.

Leave Mugging To The Comedians

By ALICIA HART

Lip habits are such dead giveaways to the condition of our minds. Nervous, tense people have so many of them. Old-looking, though not necessarily old, people often have many that they've allowed to set. The serene face of a truly beautiful woman has a mobile mouth that she uses for a natural smile and a pleasing voice, but that face never mugs.

Mugging, which people are always doing unintentionally, is so unattractive. You aren't aware when you are doing it. Many mugging habits may stem from ill health, either mental or physical. But there is something we can do to eliminate these unattractive expressions from which few of us are exempt. We can ask our closest friends whether we mug. When we become conscious of the bad habits, we can try to eliminate them.

Here are some of the ugly muggings one sees all the time:

Pursing the lips outward in a combination of the babyish and the old.

Sucking the mouth, or the teeth, with an animal-like sound.

Twitching the corners of the lips up sporadically. (This does not refer to a tic, which only a psychiatrist can treat.)

Smirking instead of smiling — distorting the mouth into a foolish-looking line.

Licking the lips frequently, especially while talking.

Biting the lips.

Rolling the lower lip downward revealing the membrane of the mouth.

Tucking the lips in over the teeth, grimly.

Holding the mouth open. If you can eliminate whatever your unattractive lip habit may be, you will have gone far towards making yourself look many years younger and prettier.

Instead of having an arm-paralyzing session of Christmas card addressing, do a few each day. Michigan State College home management specialists suggest this method of easing the usual Christmas tension.

Dehlin And Morrison Win 1-Vote Victories In Primary Election

Two incumbent supervisors, Agner Dehlin in Hiawatha and Francis Morrison in Seney, barely squeaked through to renomination in the primary elections Monday.

Both men won by one vote. Dehlin defeated Lyle Lake, 134 to 133, and Morrison edged Arnold Hyvonen, 36 to 35.

Other incumbent supervisors won more handily in Monday's voting except in Thompson township where veteran Floyd Sample was defeated by Ernest Hoholik, 96 to 77.

Wells Bowers won easily in Mueller, defeating William Tenynson, 108 to 62. In Manistique township William Rodman won over Herbert Burns, former supervisor, 169 to 149. William Popour also won by a substantial margin in Inwood township, downing John Hartman, 110 to 48.

Only other contests in the primary voting were in Manistique township where Joseph Faketty defeated Frank Arrowood for clerk, 191 to 124, and Mildred E. Buruse won in a three-way race for treasurer with 145 votes over Emily Wolfe, 104, and Roscoe Ernest Jenerau, 68.

William W. Davidson in Doyle and Alan Macaulay in Germfask had no primary opposition for supervisor. Also unopposed for supervisor was Clyde Tobin on the Progressive ticket in Seney.

Supervisors and other township officers will be elected at a biennial spring election on April 6.

C-C To Issue New Folders

Fifteen thousand new vacationland folders will be issued by the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce this spring, it is announced by Fred D. Helman, secretary.

The folders, scheduled to be available from printers in March, will be the same size as last year but will have many new illustrations of local scenes, including fish catches, bathing girls and scenic spots. They will be printed in two colors, green and black. The last order was printed in blue and black.

Cost of the folders is again being borne by advertising sold to resorts and business establishments catering to vacationists. Helman reported that advertising patronage in the folder is good, with many former advertisers doubling and tripling their space.

Spanish-American War Veterans Are Honored

Eight local veterans of the Spanish-American War were honored by the Manistique VFW post at a program commemorating the sinking of the battleship Maine and the ensuing conflict with Spain over 50 years ago.

The event, initially scheduled for Sunday evening was changed to Monday. It was held at the VFW club building, N. Maple Ave.

Only three Spanish-American War veterans were able to attend the program, Henry Jahn and Jack Williams Sr., of Manistique, and John Middaugh, of Cooks, Otto Lagman, of Detroit, and Robert Hintz, of Escanaba, sent well wishes to the meeting. Others unable to be present were Rock Chartier, Ed Wilson and George W. Judson, of Manistique.

Sheahan Speaker

Principal speaker at the session was William J. Sheahan, prosecuting attorney, who discussed the Spanish-American conflict and its impact on history.

The American army which fought in the war was completely volunteer, giving the conflict the unique distinction of being the only one in history where the forces of one of the combatants was 100 percent enlisted, Sheahan said.

Another unusual feature of the war, he said, was that it was one of the few conflicts where the defeated country was completely eliminated as a world power. Spain never came back as a great nation after the war, he stated.

Fought For Freedom

Men who fought against Spain, the speaker said, battled for the same principles of freedom and human dignity as did the soldiers of World War 1 and 11 and the present Korean conflict.

The program also included piano music by Mrs. Geraldine LaMarche; invocation by the Rev. Edgar Smith; an opening and closing salute to the colors; a message of welcome by Mrs. James Howland, VFW Auxiliary president; a short talk on the role of local soldiers in the Spanish-American War by Stephen Johnson, who also served as toastmaster; a solo, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Loren LaBrasseur, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Loren LaBrasseur; a roll call of Spanish-American War veterans by the toastmaster; taps and echo taps by two high school buglers; two numbers by the Schoolmasters' Quartet; and closing prayer by Mrs. Samuel Anderson, VFW Auxiliary chaplain.

Floral Ship

Pot luck lunch was served from a table decorated with a beautiful and unique replica of the battleship Maine made entirely of small flowers. The ship model was fashioned by William Wedegartner, local florist.

After the program the floral ship was sent to Mrs. Donald MacLean, a VFW Auxiliary member who is a patient at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Another highlight of the observance was a table arranged with pictures of local men who volunteered for service against Spain, including local scenes and views of military camps where Schoolcraft County soldiers trained. The pictures were furnished by Henry Jahn.

During the serving of lunch music was furnished by Mrs. LaMarche and Carl Olson.

U. S. Star To Jump At Pine Mountain Meet

IRON MOUNTAIN—Billy "The Kid" Olson, popular Eau Claire, Wisconsin power diver, is coming from Denver, Colorado for a crack at the North American ski-jumping championship here on Saturday and Sunday, February 28 and March 1.

The U. S. Olympic team star will also be defending the all-time Pine Mountain distance record of 297 feet which he shares with Joe Perrault of Ishpeming.

Olson, a student at the University of Denver, is the second stand-out jumper to enter the two-day classic, the most important event on this year's national ski-jumping program. Jon Ruusnae, new Norwegian sensation who attends the University of New Hampshire, was the first official entrant.

Olson's nickname, "The Kid," was pinned on him here for his outstanding performances on Pine Mountain as a youngster. In 1950 he soared 297 feet to tie Ishpeming's Perrault for the longest standing jump ever made off the world's highest artificial ski scaffold.

There are nine players of French descent in the National Hockey League. Four of the nine play for the Montreal Canadiens.

Agree No Tennis Player Can Match Bill Tilden

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK—Tennis players may come and go but two old and indestructible of the court agreed today—there'll never be another Bill Tilden.

Tilden was chosen the greatest tennis player of the mid-century in The Associated Press 1950 poll. "Tilden was the only tennis genius I think the game has ever known," said J. Gilbert Hall, 54. "No one ever studied the game like Bill—he was the greatest," added Berkeley Bell, 45.

Played Them All

These two old net codgers reminisced during the early lull in the National Indoor Tennis championships at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

"I've played against them all, from Little Bill Johnston right up to today's players and there was none to compare with Tilden," said Hall.

"Bill could smash with the best, chop, go to the net and put the ball away. He had a tremendous service and no weakness off the ground."

"What impressed me most about Tilden was the way he studied the game," said Bell.

Names Top Five

"If I had to name my top five of all time I'd do it this way:

1. Tilden; 2. Little Bill Johnston; 3. Rene LaCoste; 4. Don Budge; 5. Fred Perry."

Hall said he'd agreed on all but the No. 5 spot. "I'd have to put Jack Kramer there," he added.

Both agreed on the reason today's youngsters have failed to attain real greatness.

"It's pro money," they said. "Just when an amateur hits his peak he turns pro. Then after a year or so he's forgotten. Pancho Gonzales, Jack Kramer, Pancho Segura—look at them. Soon Frank Sedgman will be just another name."

Rapid River Turns In 70-56 Win Over Broncs

RAPID RIVER—A 16-13 first quarter lead melted for Bark River here last night as the Rapid River Rockets stepped up the pace to post a 70-56 Central League victory.

Rapid came back with 20 points

Rapid River's Waldon Johnson

and Joe LaVigne of Bark River shared high point honors with 18.

The two pivotmen were followed in the scoring department by Dave Kwarciany, Bark River forward, with 17. Victor Zar of Rapid hit for 15.

Bark River's accuracy from the free throw line kept the Broncs in the ball game. Coach Paul Winkkainen's cagers dropped in 22 gift tosses to 12 for Rapid.

The victory kept Rapid River in a challenging position in the tight Central League race.

Denver Beats Tech 6-4 In First Of Two Games

HOUGHTON (AP)—Denver will try to sweep its two-game Midwest Collegiate Conference hockey series with Michigan Tech tonight after defeating Tech 6-4 here last night.

A crowd of 1,300 saw Bob Wyllie and Eddie Miller each score two goals for Denver as the visitors dazzled Tech with their speed and sharp passing in the series opener.

Tech's Joe Debastiani scored two goals.

Denver's Craig Robertson and Dave Wyllie and Tech's Paul Vitton and Ray Puro each were credited with a goal.

Tech's sensational goalie, Harry Taylor, was shelled hard by Denver. He stopped 17 shots in the final period as the Denver players ganged up in front of the net and blasted at the corners.

Taylor, who has been outstanding all season, had a total of 35 saves. Denver goalie Walt Morin had only 20 saves.

The visitors had five penalties to Tech's two, with five infractions called in the final period when the game was enlivened with roughness.

Denver's Bob Carruthers and Craig Robertson each drew 10-minute penalties for misconduct after they became embroiled with the officials.

Michigan Tech led 2-1 at the end of the first period, but trailed 4-3 after the middle period. Denver outscored Tech 2-1 in the final period.

After tonight's game here, Denver has a two-game series at Minnesota Friday and Saturday, while Tech will clash with Michigan State at East Lansing on the same dates.

Jim Martin was a star end of the Notre Dame football team but on the Detroit Lions he is the regular guard on offense.

Graham Shocked

A shocked Graham heard the decision at his Greenwood Lake, N. J., training camp.

"I feel very bad," he said. "I thought I won it. Christenberry did the right thing. How are you going to avoid bad decisions if the commission can't? I'll make sure there will be no bad decision next time."

In his decision, Justice Botein said the only reason given by the commission for changing Agnello's scorecard was that "he had failed to follow the standards set forth in the boxing rules."

"This was so vague as to be meaningless," the judge said, adding: "No facts are furnished to buttress this conclusion."

Change In Game Site Could Be Interesting

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP)—The proposal to switch the Michigan-Michigan State football game to Ann Arbor this fall presents some interesting possibilities.

The suggestion was that Michigan State should take over as the home team in the Michigan stadium.

If the home team proposal were carried out to the letter and to the ultimate absurdity, here are some of the complications that could develop:

"We take greater pride in our academic standing than we do in any phase of our athletic program at the University of Michigan," Wolverine freshman grid coach Don Robinson told members of the U. of M. Alumni Club at a luncheon meeting here yesterday. Debunking the common conception that a college athlete has little time or inclination for studies, Robinson told Alumni members and guests that the Wolverine grid squad maintains a higher academic grade average than the student body as a whole.

"We're very proud of the caliber of boys in athletics at Michigan—and the athletes are representative of the student body," Robinson explained. Members of the grid squad are enrolled in a wide range of courses, from medicine to business administration and physical education. Robinson pointed out that the grid players actually average better grades in the fall semester (during football season) than they do in the spring term.

Commenting briefly on Michigan's prospects for next season, end coach Bill Orwig said: "With 19 of 40 lettermen graduating this spring our losses will be quite heavy. However, the freshman squad may be termed adequate, especially in the line, and replacements from the squad will be available. Three of our starting backfield men, Ted Kress, Tony Branoff and Dick Balzhiser, will be back next season. Only quarterback Ted Topor will be missing."

In regard to the new substitution rule, the Wolverine mentors stated: "The limited substitution rule presents a problem and a challenge but we believe it will help us at Michigan. We have been weak in manpower in spite of the large size of our university. The new rule will level the teams off somewhat."

Bevo Threatens To Quit At Rio Grande College

PORTSMOUTH, O. (AP)—Basketball Coach Newt Oliver of tiny Rio Grande College today has two headaches: he faces a possible legal suit for breaking a contract with Oakland City College in Indiana and his star player, Clarence (Bevo) Francis, has threatened to quit the team.

Oakland City College Athletic Director Delbert Disler charged Tuesday that Oliver is running out on a contract to play his school March 4. Oliver replied he won't play Oakland City even if the college sues him.

"They can sue me all they want," he told newsmen after Rio Grande beat Lockbourne Air Force Base, 95-80, here Tuesday night. "I am going to play Wilberforce University in the Cleveland Arena on March 4, and that's definite."

Deaths Equal Record Low In Great Britain

LONDON (P)—Britain's death rate in the third quarter of 1952 equalled the lowest level ever reached. And infant mortality and the stillbirth rates were the lowest ever recorded, the Registrar General announced recently.

A total of 98,666 Britons died in England and Wales, giving a rate of 8.9 deaths per 1,000 population. That equals the record low rate in the third quarter of 1947.

For every 1,000 live births, 23 infants under the age of 1 died. That betters the previous lowest infant death rate of 23.4 in the third quarter of 1951. The stillbirth rate of 21.5 per 1,000 also improved on the 1951 record rate of 21.8.

OLDEST FOREST

Oldest community forest in the United States was started at Newington, N. H., in 1710. It has been maintained continuously since that time.

Although plague is believed to have existed in ancient times, its most spectacular development was the Black Death of the 14th Century which took three-quarters of the population of some parts of Europe.

In 1951 Canada bought 7 per cent of United States farm exports and ranked fifth among America's foreign markets.

Detroit Boy Kept Alive With Mechanical Pulse While Heart Is Repaired

DETROIT (AP)—The amazing story of how plastic surgery was performed on the heart of a 16-year-old youth, while a pulsing mechanical heart was used, was told by Charles Moses of Detroit.

Moses appeared on a nationally televised program in which the nation got its first peek at the mechanical heart, developed after painstaking research by a team of medical men and scientists, working with technicians from General Motors Corporation.

He told of how doctors found when he was nine years old that he had a faulty valve in his heart. He was forbidden to take part in athletics and had to pace himself carefully.

Chuck's mother, Mrs. Charles Moses, the wife of a baker, gave permission for a delicate operation on the boy's heart, with the mechanical heart to be used during the process.

Briefly, the four-and-a-half hour operation included replacing a bad valve in the left side of Chuck's heart, he operation had been done many times through the years, but doctors always had to work blind in that they had to feel their way around. With the mechanical heart taking over the work of the regular heart, doctors were able to expose the regular heart and thus see what they were doing.

The famed "Michigan heart," the glass-metal-and rubber device that works like a 12-cylinder automobile engine, functioned perfectly during the tricky operation and kept blood coursing through Chuck's body.

Chuck, a high school sophomore, still cherishes hopes of being strong enough to try out for the Detroit Tigers some day. But even if he misses that goal, physicians say he will be able to live a normal life.

Soldiers In Korea Asked To Surrender Old Steel Helmets

SEOUL (AP)—Soldiers in Korea are being asked to surrender a treasured trophy—the battered steel helmet.

Lt. George B. Coe, physiologist with an Army research unit, said research is under way on a new, lightweight nylon helmet and to ward possible improvements in a lighter, more effective steel helmet.

The researchers seek helmets which have been hit by any type of missile, from artillery and mortar shells to bullets.

Turbo-Prop Airliner Lands At Montreal

MONTREAL (AP)—A four-engine British turbo-prop airliner—sample of a type scheduled to fly air routes next year between Canada and the United States—landed at Montreal Monday. It was the first trans-Atlantic flight by a civilian jet-powered plane.

Unlike true jets, the 40-seat Vickers-built Viscount uses jet power to drive four propellers. It has a longer range than a fully jet-powered plane but not as much speed.

The plane is scheduled to undergo cold weather tests in Canada. Carrying 16 aviation experts, the Viscount completed the flight from Prestwick, Scotland, in 12 hours and 15 minutes flying time.

U. M. Survey Analyzes Eisenhower Victory

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Twenty per cent of Dwight D. Eisenhower's winning presidential vote in November came from Democrats, according to a University of Michigan survey.

This was reported along with other findings, by the University's Survey Research Center on the basis of a national investigation carried out under a $90,000 grant from the Carnegie Corp., of New York.

All Classes Shift

A preliminary report on the survey, which will be completed in 1954, indicated that the Eisenhower victory stemmed from a mass movement of the voters and not from a defection of any particular group in the Democratic ranks.

"There was a general shift toward the Republican candidate in almost all classes of voters," the survey said.

Catholics and big city residents, heavily Democratic in 1948, were about evenly split in 1952. The Democratic lead among labor union members declined between the two elections. While colla-workers, split evenly in 1948, went for Ike 5 to 3 and farmers swung heavily for the general.

These factors, said the survey, plus the overwhelming support of traditionally Republican groups, groups, were about equally important in his victory.

Minds Made Up Early

The Center found that the general vote went 4 to 3 for Eisenhower and young people voting for the first time followed the same pattern.

The increased turnout in the 1952 election, which resulted in a record-breaking total of more than 50,000,000 votes, was felt in virtually all population groups, the survey found.

Also concluded by the survey was the idea that most voters made up their minds early. In a
